Matthew 20:1-16

You've heard the saying "It's not where you start, but how you finish." This certainly applies to this Bible passage.

We have a responsibility not only for our own lives, but for the lives of others as well. We are called to generously share our gifts with others, not hoard them for our own use. Our sincere gratitude and cheerful generosity will help us live "God-centered" lives and not "self-centered" lives.

Holy Trinity update from Fr Lorne

Some members of Holy Trinity Liturgy team met this week to talk about expanding weekend Masses. We agreed to proceed with Saturday 5 pm Mass starting Oct. 3. Contact the office if you wish to attend.

Our team will be actively recruiting people to assist at Masses. The first step is to contact everyone who participated in a liturgical ministry in the past year. This will include altar servers, children's liturgists, Eucharistic ministers, lectors, musicians and singers, ushers and greeters. Some of these ministries, such as altar servers and Eucharistic ministers will not be resuming in the near future. We are hopeful that many of you will be able to assist in a different area.

If we have enough helpers for Saturday Masses in October, and enough interest in people assisting at Sunday Masses, we will look at expanding to two Sunday Masses, perhaps in November.

Duties of Mass helpers:

1 person at north door to welcome parishioners, check their name off the pre-registration list and ask if self-assessment has been done.

1 or 2 people in the Gathering Area to remind parishioners to sanitize hands and ensure social distancing until they can be seated.

1 or more people in the church to seat parishioners. Contact the office if you are willing to assist.

With more people coming back to Mass, we are also looking at a new system of scheduling. More about that in my next email or next week's bulletin.

Check out Fr. Ricardo's story, starting on page 6. If you want a paper copy, stop by the church during office hours.

Mass details on page 5 including information on receiving a blessing instead of the Eucharist at Mass. We are following the protocols in place by SK Government and Archdiocese. These documents are on the Archdiocese website if you have questions about protocols.

Self-assessment Questions You will be asked the following when you book a weekend Mass, as well as when you arrive at Holy Trinity for any Mass:

Do you have COVID-19 or live with someone with COVID-19?

Have you been exposed to someone with COVID-19?

Are you sick, including even one of the slightest symptoms or feelings of sickness, especially upper respiratory or flu-like symptoms such as fever, cough, headache, aches & pains, sore throat, chills, runny nose, loss of sense of taste or smell or shortness of breath or difficulty breathing?

Have you travelled outside of Regina in the past two weeks?

The upholstery at Holy Trinity is not able to be sanitized.

Pews on the south side of the church do not have upholstery and you may request to sit there, providing they are available with proper distancing.

Sacramental Preparation

Baptism Preparation (for parents of infants and young children). Next session is Thursday, October 6 at 7:00 pm. Class fee is $20

For children age 7 and older who have not yet been baptized, we have classes for the children and parent(s) beginning in September.

Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA)

The RCIA is a process for adults seeking initiation into the Catholic Church. Weekly gatherings consist of prayer and sharing as we come to discover where God is calling each person. The process is open to:

- all those not baptized
- those baptized in another denomination now seeking to make a profession of faith in the Catholic Church and be confirmed and receive Holy Eucharist
- those baptized Catholics who have not completed their Christian Initiation (have not been Confirmed and/or have not received First Eucharist)

The RCIA journey involves the faith community as a whole by deepening its own conversion to Christ and by providing a prayerful example of Christian living for those inquiring into the Catholic faith.

For more information regarding Baptism, Confirmation, First Communion, Reconciliation, and RCIA, contact Val Magnuson, Pastoral Assistant, at 306-924-2602.

Andrei Nartatez	Sean Palomar
Josh Nartatez	Nathan Paul

Archdiocese of Regina Weekly Report

Holy Trinity open for Masses for approximately 50

Government of Saskatchewan guidelines for Places of Worship are permitting more people in churches that can accommodate them by following the needed protocols for distancing and cleaning.

At Holy Trinity, we have seating for approximately 70 people, dependent on whether they come as couples, singles or families. This number includes chairs in the Gathering Area. We are registering as many as possible for weekend Masses and monitoring how many helpers we need to provide the controls required for distancing and cleaning.

Masks are recommended but not required at this time.

Requests for weekend Mass Attendance are being coordinated in the office. Two Sunday Masses will resume when we have enough helpers to assist with this — we hope in November. Call the parish office (306) 543-3838 or email htrinity@sasktel.net. Requests will be handled during our regular office hours, which have been Monday to Friday, 9 am to 2 pm. Please provide a day-time phone number so we can call you back and confirm an attendance date. Questions about your health will be asked at time of booking (see separate box). Those registered are being given detailed instructions.

Weekday Mass Attendance - Generally weekday Masses are Monday to Friday at 8:30 am. You do not need to register in advance. Come to the north door; we will record your name and phone number and ask the health assessment questions.

Sat 5 pm Mass will resume October 3, as long as we can fill the positions needed Saturday afternoons. More details in the bulletin.

Church Open for Prayer—We will continue to have the church open for prayer from 9 am to 2 pm, Monday to Friday, unless otherwise published in the bulletin.

Church Pews—at Holy Trinity are marked to for the 2 metre guidelines of social distancing. Our upholstered pews cannot be sanitized. If you wish to bring your own seat cushion or towel, please do so. The wooden pews on the south side of the church do not have upholstery. If you prefer to sit there, check with the person directing this. Seating for Mass will be done from front to back. For exiting after Mass, it will be reversed, from back to front. These directions will be announced at the Mass.

Photos on website—check these out on the home page to give you an idea of our setup.

Promptness—to ensure we can monitor who is attending, the doors will be locked at the start of Mass. This also allows us to provide the proper number of hosts

Other Liturgy Changes—

Instructions about the Mass and going forward for Eucharist or a Blessing will be done either by announcement or individual instructions before Mass .

Singing is a high-risk activity so we will not have this except for special music as we can fit this in safely.

Proclaimers of the Word—First Reading, Psalm, Second Reading and intercessory prayers are all proclaimed by the same person, from a microphone at a second ambo (lectern) at the front. Microphones are changed between users and sit for 72 hours before being used by another person. The ambo and mike by the altar are to be used only by the priest.

Collection—a donation box is inside the glass doors for your envelope instead of being collected from you in the pew.

Eucharist—hosts will be consecrated on a table and parishioners will come forward, one household group at a time. Stand behind the black tape line; Father will say “The Body of Christ”; respond ‘Amen’, then step forward and pick up the host closest to you; take a step or two away before consuming.

A Blessing is available for those unable to receive the Eucharist. Come forward as if you were receiving communion, but cross your arms over your chest to indicate you wish a blessing. The priest will give you a verbal blessing.

Self-assessment Questions You will be asked the following when you book a weekend Mass, as well as when you arrive at Holy Trinity for any Mass:

Do you have COVID-19 or live with someone with COVID-19?

Have you been exposed to someone with COVID-19?

Are you sick, including even one of the slightest symptoms or feelings of sickness, especially upper respiratory or flu-like symptoms such as fever, cough, headache, aches & pains, sore throat, chills, runny nose, loss of sense of taste or smell or shortness of breath or difficulty breathing?

Have you travelled outside of Regina in the past two weeks?

The upholstery at Holy Trinity is not able to be sanitized. Pews on the south side of the church do not have upholstery and you may request to sit there, providing they are available with proper distancing.

WELCOME

FATHER RICARDO ESCALANTE

Appointed as Associate Pastor by Archbishop Donald Bolen effective
October 1, 2020

Note from Fr. Ricardo: This is an interview I did for the magazine of the Czech Seminary in Rome. This, combined with my Vocation Story, gives an almost complete picture of my life.

Q: Ricardo, you were born and raised in Trinidad and Tobago which for some may sound a bit exotic. Please tell us something about your childhood. What does it mean to grow up in Trinidad and Tobago?

I was born and raised in Trinidad and Tobago in a small suburb 10 minutes by car from the capital.

We had a pretty big garden, and the most beautiful memories of my youth were the many animals we had, especially dogs, racing pigeons, fish, budgies, but sometimes also rabbits, chickens and turtles. I consider myself an expert in dogs and racing pigeons (I even had a collection of books on how to train racing pigeons).

My brother and I used to wake up at 5 a.m. to feed and train the pigeons. We would give the best ones a cod liver oil tablet every day.

Beautiful memories of my youth were the many animals we had.

And we always had at least three or four dogs. The pigeons, and the dogs, especially when they would be pregnant, and have puppies, I vividly remember as a child the fascination of watching the puppies being born and raised by their mother, the sound of newborn puppies, the way she took care of them. . . watching them grow. Those, and the holidays by the sea (where the dogs came as well) remain for me the most beautiful memories of my childhood.

Q: Apart from animals, did you have a special hobby?

I was always fond of sport, of playing and also following it. I had subscriptions to an English table tennis magazine, and tennis and gymnastics magazines from the United States.

My siblings and I were in a swimming club for a few years when we were in Elementary School.

But my first passion was table tennis: I played for a club when I was in high school, and every afternoon, right after school until the evening, I would practice there. Afterwards I discovered tennis, which has remained a tremendous passion until today. Here in Regina during the summer I love playing at 5 or 6 a.m., when everyone is still asleep. However, I am not as good in tennis as I am in table tennis.

Both my parents read a lot, so we had a well-stocked library. Somehow I fell into the habit of reading as well. My father worked for the then English bank, Barclays, listened to the BBC every day and brought home the newspaper "The Times" of London.

In retrospect, this opened my eyes to a world beyond Trinidad and Tobago. It would be difficult for me to overstate the extent to which this contributed to what I am today. I remember very well the events of the 70s and 80s: the death of Paul VI and the elections of John Paul I and then II, the entry on the political scene of Thatcher, Reagan, Gorbachev and Shevardnadze; the era of Glasnost and Perestroika . . . the Solidarity Movement and the killing of Popieluszko in Poland, culminating with the fall of the Berlin Wall, and then the "Velvet Revolution." In short, the fall of Communism, almost without a drop of blood. Miraculous!!!

A time full of "exceptional" men (to use the Philosopher of History Christopher Dawson's term) people who have the power to change the course of history. And in John Paul II and the then Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, God gave the Church (and history) perhaps the two greatest of all these "exceptional men" of that time.

All this as a young boy and then young man I followed with enormous interest in Trinidad, and it remains with me as if it happened yesterday.

Afterwards, I discovered the magazine "The Economist." It was love at first sight. The first thing I did when I started working was to take out a subscription. It is beyond doubt the best newspaper in the English speaking world, both in terms of depth of analysis and writing style. It should be in the library of every high school in the world, and on the reading list of every thinking Catholic!

Q: We know that you worked as a lawyer for about 10 years. From the law to the priesthood??? A bit odd, no?

After my high school leaving exams (where I did French, Spanish and English literature: in Trinidad at that time we followed the Cambridge English O' and A' Level system: we sat our exams in Trinidad, and they were sent to England to be corrected by Cambridge University), I was not sure what to do.

An uncle of mine advised me to study law because it would give me a sure foundation, and then, if I wanted, I could study something else later. And then some friends in my class had also decided to study law, so I guess I went with the flow, as they say. But it was clear that I didn't have much interest. I continued because it was something to do.

Growing up, both my parents read a lot, so we had a well stocked library.

In the end I have no regrets about doing it, because thanks to this I was able to satisfy some of the obligations towards my family which I had willingly assumed.

But perhaps more importantly, it also taught me how to reason, how to think. I agree with Pascal that "the heart has its reasons which reason does not know,". But in the end, it is reason that should govern. The ability to completely separate the movements of the heart in arriving at important decisions is something that the law taught me.

For someone as sensitive as I am, as idealistic, it was an important lesson. Finally, on a more worldly level, the law gave me the means by which I was able to travel almost all over the world.

Q:How did you end up in Canada?

We always had family in Canada, in particular Vancouver, and we often went there on holidays. It was a natural progression, I think.

Q: You were living in Vancouver, how did you end up studying in Rome?

Since I had worked as a lawyer for 10 years, the Diocese of Vancouver wanted me to study only one year of philosophy, and then three years of theology, and then I would be ordained. But I had read an article by Cardinal Danneels who insisted on two years of philosophy and I wanted to do the same since I knew nothing about philosophy. The diocese did not agree, but gave me permission to study philosophy on my own.

Then someone said to me: "Why don't you go to Rome? There, the tuition cost is cheaper and the course is shorter, only two years". He was right and I started studying philosophy in Rome for two years. Surprising as it may sound, it was completely an economic decision. It would have cost me at least 10,000 Canadian dollars in tuition fees to study philosophy in Canada. In Rome, only about 800 Euros every year. An enormous difference.

The initial plan was to return to Canada to enter the seminary in Vancouver after the Bachelor's in Philosophy, but I fell in love with philosophy and decided to continue with the License or Master's. The Vancouver Diocese also agreed. At the end of the further two years where I got my Master's in Philosophy, the rector of the college where I lived offered me to be his assistant, with the added incentive that I would only have to pay a quarter of the accommodation costs. In this way, he suggested, I would be able to study the Bachelor's of Theology in Rome.

But Vancouver did not agree with this, and warned that such a decision would mean the severance of any hope of returning to enter the seminary of the diocese of Vancouver. I followed my spiritual director's clear and unequivocal advice that I would be a fool to turn down such an opportunity to study theology in Rome. He told me that I should put myself in God's hands: God himself will find my place in the Church. So I began to study theology in Rome, in this way ending any hope of returning to enter the Seminary of Vancouver. I would do it all over again!

Q: Studying to become a priest without knowing which diocese you could be ordained takes a lot of courage. And also trust in God. How did it all turn out?

For me the decision was very, very easy. The fact that I was following the advice of my Spiritual Director (who many considered a saint) gave me incredible peace. And, in the end, when one loses one's mother at the age of 17, things take on a different perspective: everything, in a way, seems easy.

Studying law taught me how to reason, how to think.

Q: You also decided to pursue a doctorate in philosophy. The Master's was not enough?

Actually, I had never thought about doing a PhD in philosophy, as my Master's on the French Philosopher Gabriel Marcel was anything but a labour of love. It was the Dean of Philosophy at Angelicum University where I studied who suggested that I continue with the doctorate. He said that my problem was that I loved both Theology and Philosophy, but that at my age I could not do both. He added that in the last 25 years the Church had moved away from philosophy, that there are few doctoral students of philosophy compared to theology.

I agreed on the condition that it not be on Gabriel Marcel, and that he, the Dean, be my moderator. He agreed, and I ended up starting the Doctorate on a theme that was, compared to my Master's on Gabriel Marcel, quite fascinating, culture. The actual title is, "Culture and Truth: the Philosophy of Culture of Joseph Ratzinger." An enormous theme, but oh-so-relevant.

What is culture??? Can one indeed make a legitimate distinction between high and low or pop culture. In this age of political correctness, it is a minefield. Trinidad . . . Vancouver . . . Rome. . . and now Regina, one can understand how I would gravitate to such a theme!

Next: Part 2 from Father Ricardo: "My Vocation Story"

Trinidad and Tobago

Holidays by the sea remain for me the most beautiful memories of my childhood.

TF209: On Catholic Writing with Brendan Hodge - Part 1

We begin a three-part series with Catholic writer and blogger Brendan Hodge author of the new book "If You Can Get It" through Ignatius Press. We'll be discussing the book itself, what it's like publishing his first novel, and what it means to be a 'Catholic' writer.

Show Snippet: "The title is "If you can get it" it's based on the title of a George and Ira Gershwin song "Nice work if you can get it"...but the song is about love, and it's about relationships and how love and relationships are what makes life worth living. And I kind of liked it as a play on words."

Stewardship Bulletin Bit

"So the last will be first and the first last." (Matthew 20:16)

You've heard the saying "It's not where you start, but how you finish." This certainly applies to this Bible passage. We have a responsibility not only for our own lives, but for the lives of others as well. We are called to generously share our gifts with others, not hoard them for our own use. Our sincere gratitude and cheerful generosity will help us live "God-centered" lives and not "self-centered" lives.
